Tom's "rostrums" are the exhaust pipe for overcharged public and private sentiment, and wonderful relate, they are really very seldom occupied. What's the sense in talking publicly, if every body can so talk? What's the use trying to start to riot, if the police wont interfere? "Familiarity breeds contempt," and so if you should mount one of Tom's park "rostrums" and shout high treason against God, man and your whole family, the city would simply pass by intent on its own business, perhaps with the indifferent hope that 'that fellow over there will feel better when he gets it all out of him."

A Saving.

It was agreed between two Jews that whichever died first was to have $5,000 put in his coffin by the other. Epstein died and Cohen put in a check.
